FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LOCAL EVENT COMPANY NOW OFFERS
CELEBRATION OF LIFE EVENTS

Evansville, IN (Wednesday 15, 2014) A local and respected event planning company, planning...forever events is now offering "Celebration of Life Events", which is a well-thought out, planned occasion that allows family and friends to come together to remember a loved one who has passed while honoring their legacy. Whether it is a small intimate gathering or a larger, formal get-together, your professional event planner will create an atmosphere that will encourage guests to share anecdotes and personal memories. These events are specialized to reflect the deceased's personality, while alleviating the host family's stress during this fragile time.

"We have discovered that many people wish to have something more than a typical, formal visitation service at a funeral home after they pass on. Whether they are cremated, buried or donate their body to science, their final wish is to have a celebration, where their loved ones can come together and share stories in a special environment that reflects the deceased's life", says Sandra Hadley owner of planning...forever events. "A celebration of one's life is uplifting during a very sad time. We get to know our clients so these events reflect the personality of the loved one; by serving his/her favorite food or drink, decorating with favorite colors, including favorite hobbies, creating a special video or photo presentation that allows people to laugh, cry and remember."

This service is now available to the public and pricing will depend upon the scope of your event. You can learn more about this service here (and our other offerings) or call (812) 250-2382.
